

Abstract

The present invention relates to a system and a method for communication of data between a WEB server and a mobile device equipped with a browser, such as a WAP mobile phone. The invention further relates to a method of dynamically, cheaper and faster conversion of data between a first and a second format compliant to the WEB server and the device.

Figure. 1